

ON THE MOVE SHORT DOCUMENTARY

Soundtrack Draft 14 Feedback

- Sunflower part is nice - we can keep
- Bible part: previous melody can fade out as the 3 friends are walking away - then melody from sunflower part comes in but more uplifting version of it (similar to 0:01-0:06 of ending draft 1) that 0:01-0:06 can be repeated then flow to the "2nd melody" (the slow, peaceful one) (so there is no 0:07-0:10 as in the ending draft 1)
- If possible, can you make "home is just nature i guess" a highlight (one strong note i guess) and fade out as 3 friends walking away...
- 7:12 when "back in Mackay" finishes, can the strummed guitar start going in already, but very subtle, it could be a sign of an uplifting ending. And after her laugh is when it actually hits and goes up. But I'm still considering tho, whether the guitar comes in at "back in Mackay" or when the bird jumps "best move for me actually". Can u just hear it and feel it yourself 🙄😞?
- In draft 14, the 7:24-7:26 sounds nice already. That melody can be kept but it actually will be moved forward to the earlier part (as mentioned above)
- Even if it is brought in earlier, there's still this to be considered: the current 7:28 onwards (for example 7:28-7:31 specifically) there are a few piano notes slowing down (maybe about the pacing) they still sound hesitate a bit, instead of being more and more uplifting towards the end (piano notes mismatch the kick drums which make the drums also sound not very strong and certain)
- can u pls note when finalising it that the soundtrack becomes brighter at the end? Maybe it could hit one point then start going down as the video ends (going/fading out) like currently.

Other parts:

- maybe the last camera shutter click can be reverbed or something so it could blend into layers of sounds better? Idk😞 it sounds on top of everything separately now, like out the of sudden. The reverb/echo of the voice is perfect tho😞 just right
- i think the elevator sound is a bit low that i can't actually hear?😞 (it doesn't really matter tho, it's just a very quick moment) if you found it weird to blend in the sound, you could skip while working on it!! Same to the elevator showing up again at 5:30 (but this one is longer so maybe we can include the sound)
- and just a very last note when you work on this final now is, from 5:34 towards the end, can you pls add in all sounds to match the visuals?👁👁 like whatever is appearing on the screen (street, car, footsteps, lake water, paper, wind etc)
- 5:59-6:17 if there's actually no music in the final, could we highlight with more nature sounds birds and stuff clearly instead?

Note in general is to balance voice and background music. Thanks Eva you're incredible 🙄😞💕💕

Soundtrack Draft 11 Feedback

- Hey Eva omg the city part turns out so good!!

- The start is perfect now, thank you for making it so strong<3 The “it’s very quiet” is subtle and perfect. Transition to opening (main intro part) is very smooth.
- Maybe the reverb/echo for “it’s just you” still needs to be lowered a little bit more. I think it was good, but maybe to be safer for those who first watch it, as I’ve heard it multiple times so I’m used to it already.
- 1:05 - 1:49 music volume can be lowered (then the moment 1:49 - 1:53 can keep the current volume)
- 2:13 - 2:16: a few seconds before this section can be a bit quieter so that the birds and piano come in at 2:13 can sound more vivid → The moment 2:16 when there is a piano note, can you make it very clear to lead to the next part, and then lower the volume as voiceover starts? 2:16 onwards is actually good (soundtrack doesn’t dominate her voice) but because the soundtrack volume currently remains the same from when there wasn’t voiceover, so maybe when she speaks, still lower the volume a little bit
- 3:27 - 3:31 I think you’ve tried to match the camera shutter to each turning head but I still felt like there were more of the sounds than the number of turning times. I tried to count so I think they matched, but it didn’t sound matching 🤔 does adding effects to the camera shutter sound help it work better with other layers of sounds and less separate? Or any of your ideas are welcome Eva. Maybe the camera shutter volume can be a bit lower?
- 3:48 The current volume is good. “The biggest airport in my life” moment is good. However, can you lower the music volume of 3:35 - 3:45, and then “passion for fashion design” can start gradually going up again, which can hit the current volume at 3:48. And from 3:52 going down again. Also, 3:42 tram sound slightly lower, just slightly, it’s a bit jarring now.
- Note: soundtrack clear when there’s no voiceover
- The nature part with the mix of wind, birds is really good. I like that 4:10 the music fades out, leaving space for the nature sounds. Maybe the birds should sound clearer than the winds?
- 4:22 - 4:26 can the sounds start going lower but not stopping like currently? Fading out into the next part but not complete silence.

Soundtrack Draft 9 Feedback

- The tram sound following the first piano note came in perfectly
- I really like the “oh it’s very quiet” that part was perfect
- “It’s just you” was a bit too much. I would prefer it to be much less reverb/echo or maybe just as it was. Actually! This is hard haha I watched it again a few times and I ended up thinking it was good actually, like, significant... hmm
- Oh same to “it just worked out” - yeah I don’t think the reverb/echo in both parts worked sorry Eva. They were not very natural. Maybe the ‘turning heads’ section could work more with something about the ambience sound/sound effect and music (you know like ‘woosh’ sound or wind, or like a flashback thingy or shuttle camera...) Could you please experiment what you can or maybe just leave it as it was (just music or something)? The key is I think there would be sound supporting the voiceover itself - so the voice remains but because of the sound effect, it helps highlight/make it lingering

- 3:35 - becomes fast-paced (to know that we're switching to a new journey) And if you work more on this section, could you also please consider a/some significant note(s) at during 3:40 when she looks optimistic observing the street and trams? I'm not quite sure about how you do your sound design so I don't want to make it complex for you! So is it you have a soundtrack now and you would just use it as it is? Cause I don't want to make you make a new one you know. When I said 'some significant notes', I meant either using your soundtrack and matching the high notes or playing in something just for that section. 🙏 let me know if this makes sense 🙏 or is it possible to consider using any of your previous work?
- From 3:54 the 'inspired by nature' part, can you also try rustling leaves and waterfall sounds and see how it works?
- OMG otherwise all other parts came together so smoothly and beautifully. I love your soundtrack and I think it suits the film very much.

(This is just a note for myself: check the scale of footage)

Soundtrack Draft 3 Feedback

This is beautiful Eva, I love your style.

- I really like the start with the strong note. Maybe the tram sound could be just a little bit earlier right after the note, and a bit louder? Then follow by the traffic sounds also a bit clearer (just a bitttt louder - the tram would only be the first loudest one)
- The piano now dominates the voice audio
- I like the bird chirping
- 0:26 "Oh it's very quiet" could you please make it quieter indeed at that moment, naturally? Then the piano still continues to flow (going up again)
- 0:29-0:31 I feel like it's quite busy with the piano notes during this section. Or maybe if later you make the soundtrack volume a bit lower during the voiceover, it should be okay.
- 0:33-0:34 Now it's quite empty during this second (there's not a significant piano note) which I would like to have a highlight moment when she says "It's just you" (the note has already come earlier than the line)
- "My name is Kasey Attard" I would prefer the 1st/2nd draft when it wasn't completely quiet right before this moment. It's a bit clearly separate and sudden now during this transition
- During her introduction, she already spoke quite fast so I feel like both her voiceover and piano notes are chasing each other now:((
- It would be nicer if there're some stronger notes during the section before 1:00 to hold the audience better, because this intro is quite long when she touches on a few things and the current gentle flow makes it feel longer, like "omg where is the main partttt":)
- I think the music flows to "When I was 5yo.." (the end of the draft) now is very nice, it's natural and smooth
- Thank you for composing all this Eva, this is literally what I've aimed for and I'm happy that your beautiful work matches my style. Honestly I quite pay attention to details so putting down a lot of thoughts for you. But to make it easier, probably from now with the final video for you to work on sound design, I trust you with your ideas and feelings for the piece, combined with my brief, just ask me questions along the way if you're not sure or consider anything! Then just work on it for the whole thing, and maybe I'll have maximum 3 rounds of feedback until the final one on next Sunday the 24th May. How does it sound to you? Thanks very much again Eva, let me know anything. Appreciate your effort <3

Notes: (this is not the feedback based on your draft! these are just notes for my final video that I've just uploaded)

- Some pauses in the voiceover are currently awkward because of the sudden cuts (no background noise) could you please make the voiceover smooth throughout?
- No voiceover + B-Roll showing up (transition) = clearer nature sound/foley + music (to mark it a transition)
- If sometimes she laughed, could you please adjust the audio to make it not too harsh?
- Foley: traffic, paper turning, steps, nature etc
- Could you please check the table below for some notes for some significant moments?
- Reference: Grace - My last doco

Audio Intro 1st Feedback

Hi Eva, thank you for your intro draft! Here are some of my thoughts

- I like that you used the piano notes. But maybe they're too subtle for now, which I would love something much stronger, like captivating from the first moment. I.e. Intro Reference. I know it was just a draft but eventually I'd prefer the notes to match exactly the visual and how Kasey starts/stops her speech, like they come louder and brighter when she just finishes her line and B-roll shows up (not only about the volume but also the emotional essence of the music is going up)
- I feel like the voiceover and the piano currently seem not going together for now, which the voiceover just dominated the piano. I appreciate the clear audio but it would be amazing if they're mixed together seamlessly like this. Something very clear and loud from the beginning already.
- I also uploaded (into our drive) a sample of the intro, with the proposed visuals leading to the very first line. So I would love the music to lead into the narrative. The black screen at first is just a technical stuff, the very first melody to come in is when 'Flinder st station' appears (or whatever first scene will be) they will last for a few seconds with the background ambience sound+music and then the voiceover starts. I imagine them to be strong whenever there's no voiceover, and a bit quieter (still clear) when there's voiceover

Hi Jolie, most welcome! Thank you for your feedback,

I agree it's definitely too subtle, I'll keep it all in mind and use the new intro edit for reference.

The reference soundtracks are great, thank you so much.

Update 17 May 2026

Time	Narrative	Mood	Core messages	Aim
	"Moving as a kid... it's just you"	Deep, sharing, inner thoughts, lingering, doubtful	Make a strong start, especially with the flinders station and nature scene at first, sound effects linking to the narrative → Hardship (but there is hope)	Could you please make it like lingering and her voice tone warmer/deeper? In the way that makes it emotional. Lingering in emotions & Highlight on every word she said
	Opening with 2 separate lines "Why did you move to Melbourne" and "it was really hard actually" and leading to her conversations	Wondering, emotional Reference - The beginning	Shows the uncertainty, but also could you pls make it natural but not too separate?	Make it a hook Captivating Focus on emotion and going into inner world, ambience sounds
	Self introduction + background	Happier, confident	Calm	Subtle sound
	"When I was 5yo..." Barbie story " sparkles in my eyes " (make it highlight on this line)	A bit fun, also nostalgic to tell childhood stories	Shows the inspiration	Inspirational
	Gap year → God's calling → Searching universities again " whisper in my head " " beating out of my chest " (make it highlight on this line) → feel peace	From slow to faster pace and then peaceful again	Shows the journey and all range of her emotions	Going from uncertainty to hope and peace
03:26 - 03:32	"Send me letter of offer of the uni.." " It just worked out " make it highlight on this line (with the visual of a little segment where she turned her head in different spaces)		A significant transition with visuals, so I need the sound to work with this little segment of 'turning heads'	Can you pls make the " It just worked out " line a bit lingering (like reverb? I'm not sure what it's called) but now it ends a bit fast and suddenly, so i want it to be slow and connect well with the next line

	Move to Melbourne, her first impression (airport, big city, New York) “I’m in New York, this is the city” → Talk about her emotion: scared, overwhelmed	Cheerful, very exciting fast-paced at first (because she mentioned ‘New York’) then shifting to overwhelming (but just a quick moment, because after that still looking forward to the next journey)	An important shift in the narrative - big move	Make it feel big city life (like beginning of new life, beginning of a movie)
3:48	Transition to: this city brings hope and a purpose for fashion design “And I’m here to study it”		Whether it's the music volume going up and the music starting to play, anything, just to highlight this moment:)	Significant on this moment “And I’m here to study it” and then the visual of her stepping out of the frame (her smile and very first step walking away)
	Talk about her inspiration: from nature “waterfall, leaves...” (even they’re not on screen, can you please add those sounds?)	More cheerful + confident	Inspirational feelings	Ambience sound to support, nature
	Introduce her dress	Confident, proud, (classic instrumental?)		Suits the vibe to showcase a beautiful dress
4:53	Before “I want to make...” there was a noise in between (during the pause) could you please clean it? 😞
	Talk about her rationale in fashion design	Make it calm with the sound design a bit because the messages are a bit intense	Make the message more subtle	Gentle
	“God made you beautifully as you are”	Confident, hopeful, encouraging, gentle	Make audience feel encouraged	Uplifting messages
	Transition to the messages about moving	Close the inspirational message and move to something more challenging	Subtle shift, music	Smooth transition (peaceful throughout the transition but the start of the new message is a bit sad and feel challenging)
	Some struggles moving to Melbourne: “I’m alone but not alone” “He is	From a brief sadness, emptiness to full of hope	Hopeful, more uplifting (but then transition to peace	Emotional but strong statement. “Fill the empty with me” (highlight on these lines) (the scenes she’s at the park)		in the next lines)	space, fill the atmosphere” can I please have the wind sounds specifically during this part?

	Transition to the final messages: compare Queensland (“ I miss the beaches” - can we have the waves sound please) and Melbourne → her current new life here + settled down	Peaceful, gentle → uplifting, bright → confident	Shows that the move, the change is now all good, life is fulfilling	Very much of nature sound (wind, bird... accordingly to what she says)
	“That’s the best move.. It’s pretty cool” → her last laugh, could you please make the laugh last longer and comes quieter gradually? shift to closing scene and credits	Motivating, inspiring	Ambience + nature sounds to end	Music still lingering throughout from her last smile to closing scene and credits (+black screen)
	Credit			Can I have the sound last throughout this part as well please? Reference

Length: 7 minutes

Summary:

It’s a short documentary representing Voice and Witness as a core quality, telling how moving a lot as a child has shaped Kasey and her decision to move to Melbourne at 18. It’s a story of passion and purpose in fashion design as a way to empower women, along with her new life here in Melbourne.

- Background story: Moving a lot as a child – how that shaped her.
- God’s calling: The decision to move to Melbourne alone at 18.
- Passion & Purpose: Fashion design as a way to empower women.
- New journey: What her day-to-day life looks like in Melbourne
- Final messages: What “home” and “moving” mean to her now.

On The Move is a short documentary about Kasey, a Queenslander who constantly moved across the country and overseas as a kid. At 18, uncertain but trusting in God, she moved to Melbourne alone to pursue fashion design as a way to make people feel loved and beautiful as they are.

Now we meet Kasey at 20, reflecting on what moving really means to her and what she has learnt from packing up and starting over. It's a gentle, hopeful story of belonging, growing up and finding peace when building a new life in a big city.

Visuals:

Interview

B-Roll

Basic structure & the desired sound/mood:

Background story: Moving a lot as a child – how that shaped her.

- Add in old photos and old footage (memories)

→ Sound effects as the elements appear (nostalgic)

- Giving the context for her new journey (telling her childhood stories and feelings/thoughts: proud but also a bit struggled)

→ Sounds (ambience sound, music) following the emotion changes and voice tones (music clearer and louder when there're some pauses or transitions to a new story; quieter when she's speaking)

God's calling: The decision to move to Melbourne alone at 18.

- Mix of thoughts and feelings

→ Sounds accordingly (uncertain → confident/hopeful)

Passion & Purpose: Fashion design as a way to empower women.

- Share stories from childhood (watching Barbie and inspired), how it's impacted her passion now

→ Fun, joyful, proud

- Share her designs and wear the dress she made herself

→ Confident, happy (but not in an upbeat way → mix of mature, happy, professional, gently cheerful and bright but still evoking that she's serious in her work)

New journey: What her day-to-day life looks like in Melbourne

- Very quick glimpse of her first impressions of Melbourne "Wow is it New York?" - Scenes of the city life (streets, buildings, train station)

→ Kind of a fast pace in those moments, confusingly upbeat (if it makes sense?), modern, elegant, busy (to show how big and different Melbourne was to her)

- Nature scenes (which help compare Melbourne with her lifestyle back in Queensland) - Scenes of parks, flowers, gardens, and herself immersing in nature

→ Gentle, peaceful, lovely, enjoyable

Final messages: What "home" and "moving" mean to her now.

→ Hopeful, encouraging and motivating messages (which shows that she's more mature now and happy with her new life after struggles and uncertainty)

Sound Pitch

(this is what I asked chatgpt to give me the sound pitch :) so be careful when quoting it)

The sound design will centre Kasey's voice as the main guide, creating intimacy and making it feel present. Clean, clear, and natural dialogue will be the priority. I would like to use her spoken narration as the spine of the film, occasionally layering it over visual scenes of going through her designs/clothes to unfold her fashion journey and visual scenes of her life in Melbourne to unfold her identity, journey, and passion.

Around her voice, I would like a subtle soundscape that reflects both her past and present. Soft ambient sounds of Melbourne – distant traffic, trams, footsteps, café murmur, nature (plants, flowers, leaves rustling, birds chirping, gardens and forest) – will evoke her current city, while quieter domestic sounds (pages turning, fabric rustling, sewing, sketching) will connect to her fashion practice and inner world. Kasey is an energetic, free-spirited, and fun young girl, with a rich spiritual life. Any music used will be gentle and atmospheric, sitting underneath rather than competing with her voice, and used sparingly to support emotional beats (for example, the uncertainty of moving, the calm of finding her path, the empowerment in her designs). Overall, the sound design aims to make the audience feel like they are sitting in the room with Kasey, listening to her reflect honestly on where she's come from and where she's going.

Notes:

- I just added in my initial thoughts of how I would like each section to be, which might help you have an idea of the emotions that I aim for. So it doesn't mean that you need to solely follow it to design the sounds! Please go ahead with your ideas and make it happen based on the contextual stories and emotions.

- I will update more stills from the footage into this doc and also the folder so you can get the ideas!

INSPO / REFERENCES

Updated 19 April

Mary Oliver: Saved by the Beauty of the World TRAILER

“Click” “click” sound for showing old pictures. The ambience sound of this is really cool and detailed. Shape the whole experience.

<https://abelstudios.com.au/work/artist> OR https://www.instagram.com/p/C_ha6ITSD8C/ (same)

Ambience sound. Melbourne city life, following every movement and detail of her actions. Gentle but cheerful instrumental background music.

Can we all just get out of our own way?

I really like this background music (the feeling it evokes - gentle, peaceful, but very hopeful) Lingering but we know it's not sorrowful at all, giving lots of hope and making our hearts warm. This really inspired me and I could say it's something that I envision for my project.

I See Jesus In Every Little Thing

This song is the mood I aim for.

WHAT MY FATHER THINKS ABOUT ME - My Story

Something very lingering from the sound design. 0:39-0:41 the way they used sound for transition, drawing our attention into it. Everything seems seamless. Layers of sounds are intricate yet subtle to still highlight the clear voiceover.

Keep Going- Even If You Don't See the Fruit. | Journey with Jesus | S1 EP3

The beginning is a bit sorrowful (I don't want it to be like that) not sad, just gentle. But the way they use natural sounds etc. And from 5:50, the mood is getting positive and brighter. That kind of uplifting and hopeful feeling at the end.

Timeline (updated 19 April)

Week 7: Post-production (20-26/4)

Create transcript (optional)

Update Eva on footage (stills)

Organise footage (folder) - Sort out B-Roll - Take notes

Write down file names, locations, and timecodes for the most interesting, informative, and moving moments so you can find them later.

Write a paper edit - basic structure

Consultation - update on progress for feedback

Week 8: (27/4-3/5)

Place interview quotes logically into timeline

Cut and assemble interview clips with different angles (first draft)

Refine storyline (sequence and pacing)

Cut B-Roll - refine (what can use)

Match B-Roll with storyline

Add B-Roll accordingly to the timeline (draft)

Update on sound design rationale

Assignment 2 presentation + due date (halfway milestone)

Week 9: (4-10/5)

Cut and edit (rearrange)

Refine structure and sequence

Smooth out transitions

Review draft and gather feedback

Make necessary revisions based on feedback.

Week 10: (11-17/5)

Colour correction and grading

Send for sound design (either end of week 9 or start of week 10)

Refine and re-edit

Feedback on sound design

Week 11: (18-24/5)

Consultation and Final Edits

Week 12: (25-31/5)

Finalise project - Export - Presentation - Submission