

ON THE MOVE SHORT DOCUMENTARY

Audio Intro Feedback

Hi Eva, thank you for your intro draft! Here are some of my thoughts

- I like that you used the piano notes. But maybe they're too subtle for now, which I would love something much stronger, like captivating from the first moment. I.e. Intro Reference. I know it was just a draft but eventually I'd prefer the notes to match exactly the visual and how Kasey starts/stops her speech, like they come louder and brighter when she just finishes her line and B-roll shows up (not only about the volume but also the emotional essence of the music is going up)
- I feel like the voiceover and the piano currently seem not going together for now, which the voiceover just dominated the piano. I appreciate the clear audio but it would be amazing if they're mixed together seamlessly like this. Something very clear and loud from the beginning already.
- I also uploaded (into our drive) a sample of the intro, with the proposed visuals leading to the very first line. So I would love the music to lead into the narrative. The black screen at first is just a technical stuff, the very first melody to come in is when 'Flinder st station' appears (or whatever first scene will be) they will last for a few seconds with the background ambience sound+music and then the voiceover starts. I imagine them to be strong whenever there's no voiceover, and a bit quieter (still clear) when there's voiceover

Hi Jolie, most welcome! Thank you for your feedback,

I agree it's definitely too subtle, I'll keep it all in mind and use the new intro edit for reference.

The reference soundtracks are great, thank you so much.

Notes:

- Some pauses are currently awkward because of the sudden cuts (no background noise) could you please make the voiceover smooth throughout?
- No voiceover + B-Roll showing up (transition) = clearer nature sound/foley + music
- If sometimes she laughed, could you please adjust the audio to make it not too harsh?

Update 12 May 2026

Time	Narrative	Mood	Core messages	Aim
	"Moving as a kid... it's just you"	Deep, sharing, inner thoughts, lingering, doubtful	Make a strong start, especially with the flinders station and nature scene at first, sound effects linking to the narrative →	Could you please make it like lingering and her voice tone warmer/deeper? In the way that makes it emotional.

			Hardship (but there is hope)	Lingering in emotions & Highlight on every word she said
	Opening with 2 separate lines "Why did you move to Melbourne" and "it was really hard actually" and leading to her conversations	Wondering, emotional Reference - The beginning	Shows the uncertainty, but also could you pls make it natural but not too separate?	Make it a hook Captivating Focus on emotion and going into inner world, ambience sounds
	Self introduction + background	Happier, confident	Calm	Camera shutter sound effects when old photos show up
	"When I was 5yo..." Barbie story " sparkles in my eyes "	A bit fun, also nostalgic to tell childhood stories	Shows the inspiration	Inspirational
	Gap year → God's calling → Searching universities again " whisper in my head " " beating out of my chest " → feel peace	From slow to faster pace and then peaceful again	Shows the journey and all range of her emotions	Going from uncertainty to hope and peace
	"Send me letter of offer of the uni.." " It just worked out " (with the visual of a little segment where she turned her head in different spaces)			Can you pls make the " It just worked out " line a bit lingering (like reverb? I'm not sure what it's called) but now it ends a bit fast and suddenly, so i want it to be slow and connect well with the next line
	Move to Melbourne, her first impression (airport, big city, New York) → Talk about her emotion: scared, overwhelmed	Cheerful, fast-paced at first then shifting to overwhelming	An important shift in the narrative - big move	Make it feel big city life (like beginning of new life, beginning of a movie)
	Transition to: this city brings hope and a purpose for fashion design
	Talk about her inspiration: from nature	More cheerful + confident	Inspirational feelings	Ambience sound to support, nature

	Introduce her dress	Confident, proud, (classic instrumental?)		Suits the vibe to showcase a beautiful dress
4:53	Before “I want to make...” there was a noise in between (during the pause) could you please clean it? 😞
	Talk about her rationale in fashion design	Make it calm with the sound design a bit because the messages are a bit intense	Make the message more subtle	Gentle
	“God made you beautifully as you are”	Confident, hopeful, encouraging, gentle	Make audience feel encouraged	Uplifting messages
	Transition to the messages about moving	Close the inspirational message and move to something more challenging	Subtle shift, music	Smooth transition (peaceful throughout the transition but the start of the new message is a bit sad and feel challenging)
	Some struggles moving to Melbourne: “I’m alone but not alone” “He is with me” (the scenes she’s at the park)	From a brief sadness, emptiness to full of hope	Hopeful, more uplifting (but then transition to peace in the next lines)	Emotional but strong statement
	Transition to the final messages: compare Queensland and Melbourne → her current new life here + settled down	Peaceful, gentle → uplifting, bright → confident	Shows that the move, the change is now all good, life is fulfilling	Very much of nature sound
	“That’s the best move.. It’s pretty cool” → her last laugh, could you please make the laugh last longer and comes quieter gradually? shift to closing scene and credits	Motivating, inspiring	Ambience + nature sounds to end	Music still lingering throughout from her last smile to closing scene and credits (+black screen)
	Credit			Can I have the sound last throughout this part as well please? Reference

Length: 7 minutes

Summary:

It's a short documentary representing Voice and Witness as a core quality, telling how moving a lot as a child has shaped Kasey and her decision to move to Melbourne at 18. It's a story of passion and purpose in fashion design as a way to empower women, along with her new life here in Melbourne.

- Background story: Moving a lot as a child – how that shaped her.
- God's calling: The decision to move to Melbourne alone at 18.
- Passion & Purpose: Fashion design as a way to empower women.
- New journey: What her day-to-day life looks like in Melbourne
- Final messages: What “home” and “moving” mean to her now.

Interview

B-Roll

Basic structure & the desired sound/mood:

Background story: Moving a lot as a child – how that shaped her.

- Add in old photos and old footage (memories)

→ Sound effects as the elements appear (nostalgic)

- Giving the context for her new journey (telling her childhood stories and feelings/thoughts: proud but also a bit struggled)

→ Sounds (ambience sound, music) following the emotion changes and voice tones (music clearer and louder when there're some pauses or transitions to a new story; quieter when she's speaking)

God's calling: The decision to move to Melbourne alone at 18.

- Mix of thoughts and feelings

→ Sounds accordingly (uncertain → confident/hopeful)

Passion & Purpose: Fashion design as a way to empower women.

- Share stories from childhood (watching Barbie and inspired), how it's impacted her passion now

→ Fun, joyful, proud

- Share her designs and wear the dress she made herself

→ Confident, happy (but not in an upbeat way → mix of mature, happy, professional, gently cheerful and bright but still evoking that she's serious in her work)

New journey: What her day-to-day life looks like in Melbourne

- Very quick glimpse of her first impressions of Melbourne "Wow is it New York?" - Scenes of the city life (streets, buildings, train station)

→ Kind of a fast pace in those moments, confusingly upbeat (if it makes sense?), modern, elegant, busy (to show how big and different Melbourne was to her)

- Nature scenes (which help compare Melbourne with her lifestyle back in Queensland) - Scenes of parks, flowers, gardens, and herself immersing in nature

→ Gentle, peaceful, lovely, enjoyable

Final messages: What "home" and "moving" mean to her now.

→ Hopeful, encouraging and motivating messages (which shows that she's more mature now and happy with her new life after struggles and uncertainty)

Sound Pitch

(this is what I asked chatgpt to give me the sound pitch :) so be careful when quoting it)

The sound design will centre Kasey's voice as the main guide, creating intimacy and making it feel present. Clean, clear, and natural dialogue will be the priority. I would like to use her spoken narration as the spine of the film, occasionally layering it over visual scenes of going through her designs/clothes to unfold her fashion journey and visual scenes of her life in Melbourne to unfold her identity, journey, and passion.

Around her voice, I would like a subtle soundscape that reflects both her past and present. Soft ambient sounds of Melbourne – distant traffic, trams, footsteps, café murmur, nature (plants, flowers, leaves rustling, birds chirping, gardens and forest) – will evoke her current city, while quieter domestic sounds (pages turning, fabric rustling, sewing, sketching) will connect to her fashion practice and inner world. Kasey is an energetic, free-spirited, and fun young girl, with a rich spiritual life. Any music used will be gentle and atmospheric, sitting underneath rather than competing with her voice, and used sparingly to support emotional beats (for example, the uncertainty of moving, the calm of finding her path, the empowerment in her designs). Overall, the sound design aims to make the audience feel like they are sitting in the room with Kasey, listening to her reflect honestly on where she's come from and where she's going.

Notes:

- I just added in my initial thoughts of how I would like each section to be, which might help you have an idea of the emotions that I aim for. So it doesn't mean that you need to solely follow it to design the sounds! Please go ahead with your ideas and make it happen based on the contextual stories and emotions.
- I will update more stills from the footage into this doc and also the folder so you can get the ideas!

Mary Oliver: Saved by the Beauty of the World TRAILER

"Click" "click" sound for showing old pictures. The ambience sound of this is really cool and detailed. Shape the whole experience.

Ambience sound. Melbourne city life, following every movement and detail of her actions. Gentle but cheerful instrumental background music.

Can we all just get out of our own way?

I really like this background music (the feeling it evokes - gentle, peaceful, but very hopeful) Linger but we know it's not sorrowful at all, giving lots of hope and making our hearts warm. This really inspired me and I could say it's something that I envision for my project.

I See Jesus In Every Little Thing

This song is the mood I aim for.

WHAT MY FATHER THINKS ABOUT ME - My Story

Something very lingering from the sound design. 0:39-0:41 the way they used sound for transition, drawing our attention into it. Everything seems seamless. Layers of sounds are intricate yet subtle to still highlight the clear voiceover.

Keep Going- Even If You Don't See the Fruit. | Journey with Jesus | S1 EP3

The beginning is a bit sorrowful (I don't want it to be like that) not sad, just gentle. But the way they use natural sounds etc. And from 5:50, the mood is getting positive and brighter. That kind of uplifting and hopeful feeling at the end.

Timeline (updated 19 April)

Week 7: Post-production (20-26/4)

Create transcript (optional)

Update Eva on footage (stills)

Organise footage (folder) - Sort out B-Roll - Take notes

Write down file names, locations, and timecodes for the most interesting, informative, and moving moments so you can find them later.

Write a paper edit - basic structure

Consultation - update on progress for feedback

Week 8: (27/4-3/5)

Place interview quotes logically into timeline

Cut and assemble interview clips with different angles (first draft)

Refine storyline (sequence and pacing)

Cut B-Roll - refine (what can use)

Match B-Roll with storyline

Add B-Roll accordingly to the timeline (draft)

Update on sound design rationale

Assignment 2 presentation + due date (halfway milestone)

Week 9: (4-10/5)

Cut and edit (rearrange)

Refine structure and sequence

Smooth out transitions

Review draft and gather feedback

Make necessary revisions based on feedback.

Week 10: (11-17/5)

Colour correction and grading

Send for sound design (either end of week 9 or start of week 10)

Refine and re-edit
